Trump is a great salesman

In just four hours, the Donald Trump-sponsored project at Cap Cana sold US$300 million worth of property, about 95% of the total lots available. The Trump Farallon at Cap Cana offers lots of between 6,000 and 24,000 square meters on a bluff overlooking the Caribbean. Investors from Europe, the United States and Latin America, including Dominicans, acquired the lots. The project will be developed over a three or four-year time span, and includes villas, condos, hotels and an apartment tower as well as golf and other recreational facilities. During his announcement at the press conference, Trump praised the entire Cap Cana project, and pointed out that the day's sales had been a record for the entire Caribbean.
